WOMEN'S LEAGUE ANNUAL MEETING

Christian College the Theme of the Addresses. Mrs. Hartman, the President Tells of the High Standard of Gettysburg.

The third annual convention of the Women's Leagues of Gettysburg College, held in Brua Chapel Wednesday and to-day, had for its keynote the Christian training of the young men and young women who receive their college education at the local institution. This was reflected in the addresses of President Granville, Prof. Wentz, and Student Secretary Beidelman and in the reports of the various delegates. The president, Mrs. J. F. Hartman, of Philadelphia, emphasized it in her annual address which in part was as follows:

"We are indebted to this college for the men and women who have prepared themselves for their life work here. Many are filling places of honor and preferment in all walks of life. We look upon this institution as distinctly Christian. The faculty have been, and are, men of sterling worth and character, God-fearing men whose faith is strong in the Lord. Could we imagine any others could consistently bear this great responsibility of instructing the young manhood and womanhood? With what anxiety, and travail of soul, we send the boys and girls into these schools for their higher culture and many a parent's heart is made sad indeed to realize that other than the object in view has been attained.

"We know of certain universities that make no pretense whatever of being Christian. They are only caring for the mental, physical and, perhaps, moral training and not for that precious soul culture that is so essential to one. We have come to this point of outlook, and consider the boy and girl fortunate who enters these halls of learning. We believe there is a high standard placed before the students, sympathetic, helpful teachers are influencing them for the highest things in life.

"These very hills and valleys are sources of pleasure, recreation and development to their athletic tendencies; the quiet, sweet, healthful atmosphere all contribute to make them appreciate their holy relation to the eternal life of their being. Let us hope that no man or woman ever left this college without having a higher sense of justice to all men, and to the Father of us all.

"The young people who enter our colleges will soon be called upon to meet the stern realities and responsibilities of life. They must be met by a strong, healthy mind and body, not those who are tainted with doubt, agnosticism, and hearts seared by skepticism. It is a mighty responsibility to train young people for the coming necessities of our nation and church.

"These leagues have been formed so that we can lend ourselves in person and money to enhance her interests and increase her usefulness. We daily come in contact with young people other than of our own household of faith; let us urge their investigation of our college.

"In conversation with a mother some days ago, relative to her son who will enter college in a few years, I asked whether she had given any consideration where her son would matriculate. She answered, 'Oh yes, he will enter Gettysburg or a similar college. His father was trained at one of our largest universities and, had it not been for his strength of character, we know not where he might have drifted.'

"The President, with others, had a large part in the recent celebration of the great civil strife enacted here on these hills over fifty years ago. Many returned to live over in memory the dreadful trials of the terrible days. They came with nothing in their heart, I believe, but love and good will. So in the college life may there be joy and great prosperity, and as the years pass by, many return to speak and praise her for the precious things done here for their welfare, highest development and Christian culture."

The entertainment features of the convention were an automobile trip over the battlefield Wednesday afternoon, a concert by the college boys in Brua Chapel in the evening and a luncheon given by Mrs. Granville at noon to-day.

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO YOUNG BRIDE

Huntington Township Couple Married when Bridegroom Had Appendicitis. Fatal Illness Overtakes Bride Soon Afterward.

A bride of only a few months, Mrs. Frank Kemper died Monday evening about five o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hoff, in Huntington township. She was aged 20 years.

The circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Kemper were unusually sad. Mr. Kemper and she were engaged to be married about six weeks ago and the wedding was soon to take place when he was stricken with appendicitis. The ceremony was performed and the sick man was taken to the York Hospital where he underwent an operation. Mrs. Kemper stayed in York while he was in the hospital and contracted a severe cold.

Both came home and Mrs. Kemper's cold developed into pneumonia which proved fatal on Monday. Her husband is still very weak from the effects of the operation and was scarcely able to attend the funeral which took place this morning, interment being made at Lower Bermudian church.

Mrs. Kemper leaves her parents, her husband and these brothers and sisters, Ralph, Denton and Harry Hoff, living in the vicinity of York Springs; Mrs. Essick, of Hanover; and another sister at home.

WILL RETURN

Old Jenkins Homestead to be Occupied by Member of the Family.

Bernard S. Jenkins, who is now residing at Irishtown, with his family, will, about April 1, 1914, move to the old original Jenkins farm and homestead, at the site of the old Lilly mill dam, beyond Irishtown. Francis C. Smith who now occupies the farm will take charge of the large farm owned by the Sisters of St. Joseph, formerly known as the O'Bold farm, adjoining McSherrytown.

The Jenkins family, who were among the first settlers in that section, located upon this farm, and it has been in the Jenkins name ever since. Bernard S. Jenkins, who will remove to the premises next spring is the eldest son of the late Judge John L. Jenkins and grandson of William S. Jenkins, and will be the first of the kin to occupy the farm in 37 years.

At the death of the late Samuel L. Jenkins, this farm with another farm of 112 acres, located in Harford county, Md., was bequeathed to Bernard S. Jenkins, his nephew. After residing on the latter farm for a period of two years, he disposed of it at a high figure and returned to Irishtown to occupy the old homestead next April. It will be remembered that for 16 years prior to the death of his old uncle, and benefactor, Bernard S. Jenkins was superintendent of the farm and grounds at St. Joseph Academy, at Emmitsburg.

ACCIDENTS IN ADAMS COUNTY

Child, While Playing, Falls into Cistern and Narrowly Escapes Drowning. Another Child Breaks Collar Bone in Short Fall.

Adams County has her usual list of unfortunate accidents this week and several serious accidents are reported. Narrow escapes from fatal results have been made by persons in various parts of the county.

Painful Accident

Tuesday noon, while a little son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Smith, of New Oxford, was returning from school, he, with a number of lads, stopped to play with a mowing machine that had been pulled into the Park Square on Halloween night. The lad had his right thumb caught under the cutting bar of the machine. The thumb was badly mashed besides having the nail completely torn off. The injuries, which were of a most painful nature, were dressed by a New Oxford physician.

Narrow Escape from Drowning

The little 6 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Nagle, of Abbotstown, had a narrow escape from drowning at her home one evening recently. The children uncovered the cistern in the yard and the child, while at play, fell headlong into the water, which was quite deep. The mother heard the child's commotion in the water, and hurrying to the cistern recovered her by the use of a stick of wood just as she was about to sink for the third time.

Log Fell on Foot.

Spangler Hetrick, of near New Oxford, met with a painful mishap last week. He was engaged at hauling some lumber in town and while in the act of unloading a heavy square piece of timber it turned and slipped from his hands and a sharp corner struck Mr. Hetrick on top of his right foot causing an injury from which he suffered great pain for some days, but he is now rapidly improving.

Child Fell from Chair.

Norman, the 6-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Auchy, of near Abbotstown, fell from a chair and sustained a fracture of his left collarbone. Dr. T. C. Miller, of Abbotstown, adjusted the injury.

PETER C. WIEST

Well Known Business Man and Resident of York.

Peter C. Wiest died at his home in York at 1 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Wiest was one of York's most energetic business men. He was aged 66 years, 1 month and 22 days, and the greater portion of his life was engaged in the manufacture of choice candy, the labels upon which bore the initials "P. W. C.", and his name in consequence became almost a household word in all sections of the country. The American Caramel company of today is the outgrowth of his labor from which he withdrew several years ago to live retired. In almost every movement for the upbuilding of the city he was identified, being connected with many enterprises and his death, therefore, removes one of York's most honored citizens. Mr. Wiest is survived by his wife, Mrs. E. A. Rice, a daughter, and William F. Wiest, a brother, residing in York.

WON AGAIN

Gettysburg Scores its Second Defeat over Mt. St. Mary's.

For the second time this season the Gettysburg College foot ball team defeated Mt. St. Mary's on Wednesday at Emmitsburg. Score 14 to 6. Mt. St. Mary's got their touchdown in the first half on a fake pass at the 10 yard line. In the second half Gettysburg secured a fumble on Mount St. Mary's 15-yard line and, by a series of line plunges, carried the ball over for the first touchdown. Their second score came in the third quarter, when Carroll fumbled a pass and Gettysburg again secured the ball on the 10-yard line and in three plays took it over.

A WORD FOR THE GOAT.

Milk Said to Be More Wholesome Than That From the Cow.

W. Sheldon Bull of Buffalo says: With a couple of hardy and productive goats, housed in a cheap, roughly constructed shed and pastured on a common, the owner may enjoy greater advantages from an economic and hygienic point of view than does the proud possessor of a pampered, pedigreed cow of the most fashionable breed.

First, because milk, the exclusive diet of many infants, children and invalids and a most essential item on the daily bill of fare of every member of the household, is furnished more cheaply by the goat, as the yield of milk, when the size of the goat and the amount of feed and care are considered, is proportionately much greater than that of the cow.

Second, because goat's milk is richer, more nutritious and more easily digested than cow's milk. Aside from its greater degree of richness, there is no appreciable difference in appearance or taste, and also because the milk goat is practically immune to tuberculosis, while the apparently healthy and therefore unsuspected cow may be and often is dangerously tuberculous.

Drying the Cow.

The best way to dry a cow is to place her on dry feed giving only dry timothy hay and corn stover with a very small amount of ground corn if necessary for several days. The cow should be milked only occasionally to relieve the pressure in the udder and on these occasions she should not be milked dry. As a rule, this treatment will cause any except a very persistent cow to go dry. Occasionally, however, cows are found that are so difficult to dry that it is best to permit them to continue milking rather than risk injuring their udders.—Kimbball Dairy Farmer.

Earliest Nails Were of Bronze.

Nails of the earlier nations were of bronze. The nail used by Jael in killing Sisera was a wooden tent pin. Up to the nineteenth century nails were mostly forged, the first cut nails being made by Jeremiah Wilson in Rhode Island in 1775.

TAMMANY ROUT IS COMPLETE

Mitchel and Entire Fusion Ticket Elected in New York.

PLURALITY IS ABOVE 121,000

Fielder, For Governor, Carries New Jersey by 32,000—Democrats Sweep Massachusetts—Maryland Elects Lee, Democrat, to U. S. Senate.

New York, Nov. 6.—Tammany Hall was snowed under in the city election on Tuesday, fusion carrying all before it.

John Purroy Mitchell was elected mayor by a plurality of 121,209. Edward E. McCall, his Tammany opponent, early gave up the fight and sent a telegram of congratulation to Mitchell. Fusion elected William A. Prendergast comptroller by nearly or quite 25,000 plurality. It carried George McAneny into the presidency of the board of aldermen by about 50,000.

The election of these three men over their Tammany opponents gave the fusionists the board of estimate, which controls the purse strings of the municipality. In addition fusion candidates were chosen to the borough presidencies of Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx, adding five to the total and giving fusion fourteen votes to Tammany's two.

Tammany's only salvage from the rout consisted of the borough presidencies of Queens and Richmond, minor officials in these boroughs and a few scattering assemblymen.

The entire Tammany ticket in New York county (Manhattan Island) was beaten. The fusionists captured the county offices in Kings county (Brooklyn) and the Bronx.

The board of aldermen of the greater city will be controlled by fusion votes by a majority estimated at fifteen.

Tammany has elected 19 of the 33 assemblymen in Manhattan and the Bronx. A year ago it elected 33. Of the 25 assemblymen in Manhattan and the Bronx who voted for the impeachment of Sulzer and stood for re-election six were defeated.

On the basis of incomplete returns it was estimated that the next assembly will be composed of 85 Republicans, 17 Progressives and 48 Democrats. Many of the latter were said to be men of Progressive or independent tendencies.

Fielder Has 32,000 in New Jersey. Trenton, N. J., Nov. 6.—Once more President Wilson has swept New Jersey. His personally selected candidate for governor, James F. Fielder, of Hudson, has won by a plurality of more than 32,000 over former Governor Edward Casper Stokes, Republican, with Everett Colby, Progressive, trailing along in the rear.

That the victory is a personal one for the president is patent from Fielder's plurality. The desperate efforts resorted to by "Jim" Smith, former United States senator, to defeat Wilson in the state have again come to naught. Old line politics has given way to the so-called "scholarship."

Out of twenty-one counties Fielder has carried fifteen, leaving Stokes the cold comfort of six, with the additional tribulation of having lost his own home county—Cumberland.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP BAY STATE

Walsh Has Largest Plurality in History of Party in State.

Boston, Nov. 6.—The extent of the Democratic landslide in Tuesday's state election was not fully realized until after a recapitulation of the figures.

Then it was found that Lieutenant Governor David I. Walsh had been elevated to the governorship in a four-cornered contest by a plurality of 53,691. This is the largest plurality ever achieved a Democrat candidate for the office.

Complete returns give the vote for governor as follows: David I. Walsh, Democrat, 180,368; Augustus S. Bird, Progressive, 126,677; Augustus P. Gardner, Republican, 116,314; Eugene N. Foss, Independent, 29,815.

The new governor carried with him into office every Democratic candidate on the state ticket, with the possible exception of attorney general. This is another result unique in Massachusetts political history. The other Democratic state officers chosen are: Lieutenant governor, Edward P. Barry; secretary of state, Frank J. Donahue; re-elected treasurer, Frederick W. Mansfield; auditor, Frank H. Pope.

The contest for attorney general between Attorney General James M. Swift, Republican, and Thomas J. Boynton, Democrat, was so close that a recount may be necessary.

The Republican grip on the legislature was weakened. The Progressives, who scored heavy gains, hold the balance of power. The senate stands: Republicans, 20; Democrats, 18; Progressives, 2. The house stands: Republicans, 117; Democrats, 103; Progressives, 17; Independents, 2; Socialists, 1. The Democrats also made slight gains in the executive council.

who was appointed by Governor Goldsborough to succeed the late Isidor Rayner.

Emerson C. Harrington, Democrat, is re-elected state comptroller.

C. C. Magruder, Democrat, is re-elected clerk of the court of appeals.

All of the six amendments to the state constitution are adopted.

The Democratic majority in the state will be more than 25,000. Blair Lee led the ticket in the city and in the counties.

The Democratic leaders claim a majority of two-thirds in the next senate and house of delegates, a majority sufficiently large to enable them to override the vetoes of Republican governor Goldsborough.

Coady, Democrat, was elected to congress from the Third district, getting a plurality of 6288.

McNulty, Democrat candidate for sheriff, defeated Albrecht, Republican, by 15,523.

ELECTIONS PLEASE PRESIDENT WILSON

Considers Result in Three States as Endorsing Him.

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Wilson made no official comment on the Democratic victories in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Maryland, but told friends he was much encouraged because in all three states the tariff and currency had been made issues and he felt that the administration's policies had been upheld.

His secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, was particularly happy that his home county, Hudson, gave Fielder, the Democratic nominee for governor of New Jersey, an overwhelming majority.

Congressmen generally telephoned their congratulations to the White House, and Secretary Bryan, who had campaigned in Maryland and New Jersey, expressed satisfaction at the results.

The president already had sent a telegram to Fielder and dispatched these messages.

To David I. Walsh, elected governor of Massachusetts: "My heartfelt congratulations. It was a splendid victory."

To Blair Lee, Democrat, elected a United States senator in Maryland: "I congratulate you and the party most warmly. The victory was complete."

White House officials said announcement soon would be made of the acceptance of the resignation of John Purroy Mitchell, mayor-elect of New York. President Wilson made no comment on the New York city returns.

Secretary Bryan declared the elections offered the first opportunity for the country to express itself since the presidential election, and that the results could not be taken otherwise than as an endorsement of President Wilson.

SPONGE FOUND IN PATIENT

Had Been Used in Previous Operation and Forgotten.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 6.—A patient received at the Pottsville hospital, who had been an inmate of another hospital, was operated upon and a long thin sponge a yard and a half long removed.

The sponge had been used for "packing" the patient in a previous operation, but had been forgotten and sewed up. Hospital authorities refuse to give the name of the patient, but say she will recover.

HUERTA, IT IS SAID, ANSWERS U. S.

Bryan Refuses to Confirm or Deny the Rumor.

ASKS FRANCE TO MEDIATE

Paris Will Not Act on Mexico's Plea Until President Wilson Announces His Policy.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Secretary of State Bryan flatly refused to discuss the Mexican situation in any of its phases.

He was asked particularly about one published report that General Huerta had made a reply to a recent communication from the United States and he refused to confirm or deny it.

It is expected that the Mexican dictator will set forth his position as to his policy regarding vacating the presidency.

The scout cruiser Chester, now at the Philadelphia navy yard, was ordered to prepare to sail for Vera Cruz immediately. The Chester is not a heavy fighting ship, but swift and valuable for dispatch and scout duty. Of lighter draft than the big warships now at Vera Cruz, she will be able to join the smaller craft inshore.

Secretary Daniels explained that the dispatch of the Chester was part of his plans to substitute cruisers for the heavier battleships in Mexican waters, so that the latter might resume practice and maneuvers. The change, he said, would be made gradually, as the cruisers are not available on the east coast in any number.

At the army general staff offices it was said that the only preparations for troop movements being made were those for exchanges of posts previously announced.

State department officials take the position that the action of the French foreign office in refraining from indicating whether it was disposed to mediate between Mexico and the United States is another evidence of the intention of France to defer to the policy of the United States in the Mexican situation. France was among the first of the European governments to accede to the request to defer action in the Mexican situation until the Washington government had formulated and announced its policy.

According to information reaching the state department about 1200 to 1500 Americans remain in Mexico City. The remainder of the 5000 that were there are now distributed among the towns of Torreon, Monterey, Guaymas and Mazatlan.

Since the warning issued by President Wilson in his last message to congress relative to the Mexican situation no new instructions have been sent to these Americans. It is stated, however, that in the interval a few, who had left the country, have returned.

Acting Chief Moran, of the secret service, has received word of the arrest at El Paso, Texas, of J. R. Corbett, an American, caught by the Mexican authorities passing counterfeit nickels and quarters in Juarez, across the Rio Grande in Mexico. His plant was discovered in El Paso.

Asks France to Mediate.

Paris, Nov. 6.—The French foreign office was asked informally by the Mexican foreign office if it was disposed to mediate between the United States and Mexico.

The French government has taken the attitude that it will do nothing until further advised as to the policy of the United States toward Mexico, and then nothing which might be unwelcome.

PROBES OYSTER OUTRAGES

Gov. Goldsborough Sends Two Men to Investigate Complaints.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 6.—The burning of buildings charged to disgruntled oystermen will be probed by the state. State Fire Marshal Myers left Baltimore for Somerset county, where complaints have been made about the burning of buildings on the Annapemes river, owned by A. E. Tull, of Marston.

At the same time there have been complaints made to the state's attorney of Somerset that oysters have been stolen by natural bar oystermen from planting grounds in the same locality.

Governor Goldsborough instructed the fire marshal to take with him a city detective to investigate the affair.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 6.—Although a jury recommended Harry C. Moore, a youth, to the mercy of the court after he had changed his plea of not guilty to guilty of breaking into and robbing a local store of $45, the court sentenced him to three years in jail and to be whipped with twenty lashes.

The back of the average man who keeps a flock of hens on the place needs limbering up to the extent of spooling up the chicken yard so that the hens may have a supply of worms.

The leaves make a fine covering for the rose and other bushes and should be saved for this purpose. If they are to be burned they should be put on the garden. It is better, however, to let them lie until spring and then spade or plow them under.

It is useless to apply gypsum as a substitute for lime to correct soil acidity, for it is an acid and not an alkaline compound, its chemical symbol being CaS4, while that of lime is CaO. The former is commonly known as calcium sulphate, while the latter is calcium oxide.

The writer's table is now being supplied with turnips from a patch which was not sowed until the eighth of August. There has been abundant moisture since Aug. 25, but the weather since the middle of September has been unseasonably cool and has prevented the most rapid growth.

What is said to be the tallest corn ever grown in the state of Illinois was produced the past season on a farm near Downer's Grove. It reached an average height of seventeen feet and two inches. The corn was grown from seed furnished by the government experiment station and got from an old Indian mound in southern Colorado.

The dignity and importance of the hen have lately been established by a decision handed down a couple of weeks ago by the Iowa supreme court. In effect, the decision is that hens are not a nuisance as some animals that are allowed to run at large have been declared to be. If one wishes to keep his neighbor's hens out of his garden he must fence the hens away from it instead of trying to persuade his neighbor to keep them shut up at home.

Mrs. L. A. Hill of Lee's Summit, Mo., one of fifty ladies who entered a contest for honors in the poultry division at the American Royal stock show at Kansas City. In relating her experience in the Kansas City Star states that she has one-half acre of land devoted to poultry raising. She has been raising pure bred poultry for the past fifteen years and states that she has found it easy to earn $500 a year above all expenses. She further states that she does not devote to her poultry an average of more than two hours a day.

How pitifully inadequate the measures of precaution sometimes taken by state legislatures for the safeguarding of live stock interests against disease is rather strikingly shown in the writer's home state. The last session of the legislature appropriated $15,000 for the purpose of equipping a serum plant. In connection with this it may be recited as a matter of economic history that since that time in one county of the state alone, Cerro Gordo, the losses from hog cholera are put at $1,000,000, and for the state as a whole it is fair to assume that the losses of the past year will total between $50,000,000 and $70,000,000. It would seem as if an industry of the importance of the hog industry of the state was entitled to more protection than that afforded by a $15,000 appropriation.

NEXT ATTRACTION

Large Colored Musical Comedy Company Coming on Friday.

With Rogers and Creamers' "Negra Players of America" cavorting about the stage of Walter's Theatre on Friday evening theatre-goers will take advantage of the first opportunity presented them this season to see a colored musical show. There have been many changes made in the "Old Man's Boy" since the piece was seen at the Lafayette, New York, last June. A prologue lasting eight minutes has been prefixed, a piece of dramatic construction which has done much to make the plot more easy of comprehension. It has further served to make the last act more potent in its dramatic scenes as well as to strengthen the dominant idea with an atmosphere of consistency, uniformity and dramatic unity.—advertisement

Evidence by Telephone

By EDWIN WATERMAN

There is nothing more irritating to a man than to be accused by a woman, especially when some part of the accusation is technically true. Being engaged to Clara Underwood, a very pious and lovely young lady, I felt it my duty before marriage not to give up certain amusements—a friendly game of poker, for instance—but to conceal such from my fiancée. It seemed to me that there would be no use in letting her know about them, for once married, I proposed to settle down and be a thoroughly domestic man.

What was my horror one day when my bosom friend, George Brewster, came to me and said: "Great Scott, Billy! What do you suppose that tattler, Madge Ellis, has been telling Clara about you?"

"What?"

"Why, that you drink, gamble and have already jilted four girls that she knows of and as many more that she doesn't know of."

"You don't mean it?"

"I certainly do."

"I wish she were a man; I'd make her eat her words."

"She isn't a man and you've got a lot of diplomacy on your hands."

"What can I do?"

George thought awhile, then said: "I have it—the telephone!"

"What do you mean?"

"At Clara's home there is a receiver upstairs and one downstairs. You go to see Clara and send up word that you've come to explain Madge's allegations. I don't know whether Clara will see you, but if she does don't try to explain by a denial; it won't do any good; prove your case by telephone. Station Clara at one of the receivers and call up Madge at the other; then make Madge go back on what she has said about you while Clara is listening."

"How can I do that?"

"Don't ask me. Have you no inventive power? Lay a plan. If you can, before you begin to talk; if not, rely on your wits and be guided by what Madge says."

That afternoon I called on Clara, and I was half an hour getting an interview. When I succeeded I told her that I would call up a very dear friend of mine who would disprove the charges against me and that I wished her to hear what was said without the other person knowing she was listening. She consented, and I started the game.

Now, I knew what neither Billy nor Clara knew—that Madge was one of the girls I had jilted. That is to say, she had tried to make me in, and I had declined to be taken. Clara went to the receiver upstairs and I to the one downstairs. I called up Madge, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Is that you, Madge?"

"Yes. Who is this?"

"I'm Billy Meredith."

"Oh."

"How would you like to go to the theater with me tomorrow night?"

"The theater?"

"Yes."

"What would Clara Underwood say?"

"Oh, she wouldn't care. Didn't you know that my engagement with her is broken?"

"No; is it?"

"Yes; Clara broke it, but I have been for some time wishing to be free."

"Why?"

"For certain reasons?"

"What reasons?"

"Well, I've never felt right about you. I didn't realize—but a telephone isn't the means by which to talk over."

"Clara is a very lovely girl. I wonder you didn't stick to her."

"She has her faults."

"Well—yes—some faults."

"Such as?"

"Well, she affects to be awfully good. I don't believe she's any better than any one else."

"I don't either. She thinks I'm a bad one. That's one reason why she broke with me. Did you ever hear that I drank?"

"No. And I know you don't, at least not immediately."

"Or gamble?"

"Certainly not."

"Or that I'm generally wild?"

"How ridiculous."

"Well, how about going to the theater tomorrow night?"

"I have an engagement for tomorrow night, but I can break it."

"I wouldn't do that. I haven't bought the tickets yet. I'll see for what night I can get them and call you up again. Goodbye."

Without waiting to hear her own goodbye I hung up the receiver and waited for Clara to come down to me. I feared that her ire would overcome her discretion, but she controlled herself, and in a few moments I heard her footsteps on the staircase. She approached me with extended arms, I clasped her in mine, and we stood for awhile without speaking. When she disengaged herself I saw that her eyes were moist.

"The horrid thing!" were the first words she uttered.

"You see that I'm not so bad as she painted me."

"Why, do you know the little liar told me you played cards for money at George Brewster's every Saturday night."

"Did she say that?"

"Yes, she did."

What great things those telephones are!

Be the Right Oak.

"Think of me as the sturdy oak and you as the clinging vine, my sweet."

"Yes. But be a live oak, Clarence, dear!"—Puck.

Dr. Johnson has held noted pastorates for the past ten years, doing much lecturing each year, but now is devoting all his time to the Lyceum platform. He will lecture in nearly every state in the Union this season, his subjects being of a popular nature.

The story of how he secured an education is inspiring. He was left an orphan thirteen years of age, and while thrown entirely upon his own resources he graduated from his state university at the age of 24. If all young men could hear how he worked his way through college it is to be doubted if they would become so easily discouraged when the road seems rough.

Out of his experiences he has built a lecture—the only kind that is likely to inspire—that he calls "Ell and Dennis," which he will deliver here. It is a lecture every young man and woman should hear and a large attendance of pupils from the upper grades and the high school is especially desired. Adults will find much in the lecture for them—it is the kind that inspires old as well as young.

For some years past practically 10 per cent of the eggs that have been shipped to the New York market have been cracked, and many of these have been unfit for food use. An effort is being made under the direction of the department of agriculture to put a stop to this big loss by getting those who handle eggs from farm to market to exercise greater care and to design a shipping package in which the breakage will be greatly reduced.

If any rabbits have been breeding this season about the place it is none too soon now to begin to shoot or trap them for stews or fries for the table or for providing a meat ration for the hens. Allowed to live into the winter, these rodents are almost sure to raise hob with the younger orchard trees or with the raspberry or rosebush canes in the garden, both of which they relish when the snow is deep and other green food is scarce.

As soon as the trash in the garden gets dry enough it will be a good idea to rake it up and burn it. This will destroy a good many weed seeds and will also expose to the action of the elements and to the birds and poultry a good many insects of one kind and another. If the garden has not been plowed in the fall for some time it would be well to plow it. This will get rid of a good many more insect pests and will expose the soil to the action of the elements during the winter months, which will be found beneficial.

As the writer thinks back on his boyhood days he remembers that he had a very warm spot in his heart (or stomach perhaps it was) for the Tolman sweet. It was mighty appetizing in the raw when he came in hungry and when nicely baked and dressed in rich Jersey cream was fit for a king.

While the past season has not been favorable for some kinds of garden truck, the writer finds an exception in the case of tomatoes. Never has he picked larger or finer fruit from vines that were given just average care. And ripe fruit from this same patch was still being used on the table on the 11th of October.

Those who have grown sweet potatoes for the first time this year should remember that the tubers ought to be thoroughly dried out before being stored. In sweet potato storage houses a temperature of from 90 to 100 degrees F. is maintained until the drying process is completed, after which the temperature is reduced to about 50 degrees.

Some shingle roofs that the writer knows of are still giving very good service after thirty-two years. It hardly need be said that these shingles, which have shed rain and snow for nearly a generation, were not the kind of shingles that are on the market today. Neither were the nails which were used in nailing them on like the shingle nails that one can get today.

One of the last jobs for a bright, warm day in the orchard is looking over the trees and making way with any borers that can be found, whose presence is indicated by the brownish, sawdust-like excreta which is usually thrown out of an opening in the bark close to the surface of the ground. A sharp jackknife and a wire or pliable peeled twig are the only tools needed.

SEEING THINGS.

The tendency of the human mind to exaggerate is quite laughably shown during a scare which was caused in a neighborhood not far from where the writer lives following the visit of two panthers, whose tracks were said to have been seen in the soft earth of cultivated fields in the vicinity. When the scare was at its height and folks' imaginations were in nice working order a couple of light colored ponies with riders astride had occasion to pass along the road near where these varmints were supposed to have been seen. Before sundown of the same day these two panthers were reported going along this road, each with a man in its mouth.

CORRECT FOR EITHER IN-DOOR OR OUT-OF-DOOR WEAR

Since, to a degree, simplicity is the rule this season, many of the well-cut designs, showing long, straight lines, are equally as appropriate for afternoon teas and matinees as for street wear. A fact that makes for economy and a saving of time as well.

The lines of the "new" figure show a more or less of a slope to the shoulders and broad lines in waist and hips and often at the knees. 7789 and 7710 is especially suited to these lines, showing, as it does, the drop-shoulder and a slight fullness at the waist. A bit of drapery on each side of the skirt is modish and graceful.

The frilling of net filling in the neck and the diagonal closing of the blouse is another effective touch.

One of those quaintly figured stuffs that fairly "make" a gown is used here. The design could also be fashioned of one of the modish velours or ratines effectively. A figured charmeuse or a broad satin are also good suggestions if the frock is intended solely for afternoons. An attractive folded girdle in a bright, harmonious shade and an inset of the same satin at the bottom of the skirt are individual notes that give distinction.

HARVESTER TRUST TYRANT, IS CLAIM

McReynolds, Bitterly Scores the Giant Concern.

ASKS COURT TO DISSOLVE IT

Attorney General Wants Company Cut Up Into Distinct Units and Competition Restored.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—Attorney General James McReynolds, concluding final arguments for dissolution of the International Harvester company before the United States district court, asked that an interlocutory decree be entered by the court, declaring the Harvester concern a monopoly in restraint of trade.

The attorney general requested that the defendants have a reasonable time to submit to the court a proper plan of reorganization.

"It is the view of the government that this company must be cut up into separate and distinct units," the attorney general said. "This must be done in such a way that the stockholders of the different parts must be distinct. We insist that it is an economic impossibility for companies owned by the same people to furnish bona fide competition."

Mr. McReynolds condemned Cyrus McCormick, whom he called the founder of the Harvester "trust," because Mr. McCormick had not appeared in the case.

Mr. McReynolds reviewed the career of the Harvester company from its organization ten years ago.

"The story of this powerful monopoly, marking time, or losing business here and there, as related by some of the counsel for the defense, is absurd," he said.

"In 1902 the total business done by the International Harvester company was $53,000,000; in 1912 it had increased to $125,000,000; in the same length of time its capital had increased from $120,000,000 to $163,000,000, and between 1903 and 1911, the latest figures available, the assets of this concern had increased from $130,000,000 to $223,000,000.

"Of course there has been some competition. We got that story in the tobacco case and in numerous other trust cases. But the fact stands out that we have more than 90 per cent of the great harvesting companies of the country put under one company."

"No man who looks on that picture can fail to see that this concern had the absolute power to fix prices."

"Intent is wholly immaterial. Philanthropic purposes cannot be pleaded as justification."

John P. Wilson, during his summing up for the defense, predicted a price war among the Harvester manufacturing firms. He did not demand acquittal, but asked that the court dismiss the case without prejudice to either side, thus reserving to the government the right to intervene at any time in the future.

At the conclusion of Mr. McReynolds' argument court was adjourned and the case was taken under advice and counsel.

PURSUER SHOTS ROBBER

Three Men Robbing Mill Safe Interrupted by Owner.

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 6.—Three robbers were discovered in the office of S. J. Pugh's flour mill, West Lampeter township, where they blew open the safe with nitroglycerin, securing $58.

Upon the appearance of Pugh and his son, Clarence, the robbers fled pursued by young Pugh. In crossing the bridge over Mill creek a lively revolver fusillade took place, but the robbers escaped.

Several hours later a farmer saw two men under a bridge near New Danville dressing the wounded arm of a third man, and it is believed these were the robbers and that one was shot by Pugh.

RAILROAD MEN OVERWORKED

Western Maryland Fined $600 For Violating the Law.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 6.—Judge Rose in the United States district court imposed $600 fine—$25 each for twenty-four violations—on the Western Maryland Railway company for violating the act of congress prohibiting railway employees from being worked more than sixteen consecutive hours.

The average time was eighteen consecutive hours. The railway company admitted the allegation.

Pueblo, Colo., Adopts Single Tax.

Pueblo, Colo., Nov. 6.—By a majority of about 500, Pueblo adopted the single tax. Under the charter amendment adopted all the taxes for the city expenses will be raised by the assessment of lots alone, without regard to the value of improvements. State, county and bond redemption taxes will be collected under the state laws by the city system.

Socialists Lose in Minnesota.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 6.—Crookston, by a majority of 262, elected Thomas Morris mayor in Tuesday's election ending the Socialist regime. Every ward voted "wet," the majority being 358. Croquet voted "dry," and saloons will go out of business. At Thief River Falls high license carried. The Socialist ticket was defeated.

"FINE," SAYS ROOSEVELT

Colonel's Comment on Result of New York Elections.

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 6.—One of the first things asked for by Colonel Roosevelt when he landed here from the cruiser Uruguay, aboard which he made the trip from Montevideo, was the result of the New York elections.

"Fine, fine! I am so glad," was his only comment when he heard the news.

As the Uruguayan cruiser entered the harbor the warships at anchor there fired salutes and the guns in the forts boomed a welcome. Thousands of persons were at the dock to cheer the distinguished American, and he was met by city officials, heads of various civic organizations, the presidents of the legislature and the municipal council, and a representative of President Saenz Perna.

Colonel Roosevelt was received by the president, and on his way to the United States legation 200,000 persons cheered him.

CREW IS MISSING; SHIP DRIFTS AT SEA

Find Schooner Loaded With Fish and Sails Set.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 6.—The faded yellow pages of the log books of the New Bedford whaling fleet fail to record a mystery of the sea more baffling than that presented when the revenue cutter Graham towed into port the Gloucester fishing schooner Annie M. Parker, which was picked up on Monday with all sails set, her hold filled with fish, and without a soul on board, sixty miles east of the Nantucket Lightship.

There is no trace of any of the nineteen men composing the schooner's crew. In its details the mystery recalls the case of the Boston brig Marie Celeste, which was found abandoned at sea some forty years ago. The fate of her crew was never known.

The British steamer Astrakhan, bound from New York for France, sighted the Parker on Monday, drifting with all sails set. Boarding the schooner, officers of the steamer found four of the dories missing. A few burned pieces of bread were all the food in the galley, indicating that before leaving the crew had hastily gathered together a supply of provisions.

The schooner was not leaking and was in perfect condition, except for the loss of one jib. Salt fish valued at about $8000 filled the hold. A prize crew from the Astrakhan took charge of the Parker and turned her over to the Gresham.

From the owners of the Parker it was learned that she sailed from Sydney, N. S., for her home port on Oct. 26, after a fishing trip to the Newfoundland Grand Banks. She was in command of Captain Vincent Nelson, a veteran Gloucester skipper, and was manned by a crew of eighteen men. The owners could offer no explanation of the abandonment of the vessel.

There is a possibility that the crew of the Parker was picked up by some sailing vessel. Had they been taken aboard a steamer the rescue probably would have been reported by wireless.

SHOT TWO POLICEMEN

One Dead and Another Dying From De-moted Man's Bullets.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—"I've got a message from God and nobody can stop me," cried Walter Kuhlman, aged twenty-nine years, as he brandished a revolver and fired point blank at Patrolman Warren Snow in the central police station.

When chased by Patrolman Arthur J. Mitchell, he turned and fired at that officer. Both men were fatally shot. Snow died on the way to St. Mary's hospital. Mitchell's death is momentarily expected.

Kuhlman, who is mentally deranged, had been told by Police Lieutenant Schnabel that he could not leave the station, which angered him. He was captured.

REPUBLICANS PLAN TO REORGANIZE PARTY

Chairman Hilles, of National Committee, May Resign.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Republicans in congress who discussed election results let it be known that there is a strong probability that when the Republican national committee meets in Washington in December to consider plans for reorganization and rehabilitating the party and the advisability of calling a national conference, Chairman Charles D. Hilles may tender his resignation and a new chairman of the national Republican organization be elected.

Mr. Hilles came to the chairmanship of the national committee at the personal request of President Taft and without much political experience. He was elected chairman out of deference to the custom which permits the presidential nominee of the party to indicate the name of the chairman who is to manage the campaign.

Now that the circumstances which brought Chairman Hilles to the head of the national committee no longer exist, there is a feeling that he can well relinquish the place. The Progressive Republicans insist that no headway can be made in the work of reorganizing and rehabilitating the Republican party so long as the Chairman Hilles, who was closely identified with President Taft, remains at the head of party affairs. It is the plan to get a chairman who was not prominently identified with either the Taft or the Roosevelt factions in the bitter pre-convention fight of last year.

WOMEN VOTE DOWN SALOONS

Dry Forces in Illinois Win Sweeping Victories.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Sweeping victories for the dry forces of Illinois were shown in figures completed in cities and towns where women voted for the first time on the question of permitting saloons in their communities.

Twelve towns in which saloons are established went to the drys. Ten towns and villages already dry were kept in the dry column. The wet won five towns which were already wet.

In Carter, Calhoun county, which is now wet, the vote was a tie. In most instances the women cast overwhelming votes against the saloon.

TUNICKED AND PANNIERED IN MOST APPROVED FASHION

Winter frocks no longer suggest weight and warmth, rather flimsiness and sheerness. Everything must be diaphanous this season. This is especially true of indoor dresses, luncheon and tea frocks. Mouseline, tulle, voile, net and chiffon are the favored materials.

7922 is a most charming dancing dress. Plaited chiffon is hung over a delicate pink foundation of liberty satin. The shaped trimming band on the skirt is of pink chiffon bordered with pink and blue mouseline rose buds, with now and then a bud of bold color for contrast. A collar of the pink chiffon is also edged with rose buds. More vivid color is brought out in the broad folded sash.

A set-in sleeve is used and a threepiece skirt. The dress closes in the back.

This little dancing frock may be copied in size 18 with 4 1/4 yards of 36 inch material.

In 7880 flowered chiffon is draped, pannier fashion, over plain satin, and the inset at the bottom of the skirt is of plaited chiffon. The dress is a peasant model, closing in the back. A surplus effect in the front, edged with a frill of plaited net, renders the blouse distinctive, and the wide, sharply contrasting girdle is another smart point.

To make a frock after this design in size 36 5/4 yards of 36 inch material is needed.

Read What The New York Critics Say

New York Sun:

The first night's audience did not know that the term "Negro Players," as the advertisement says, is a phrase meant to denote an attempt to display the literature and talent of a distinctive race. So they were a little surprised when they found pathos, plot, though a meagre one, and a problem mixed up with an Apache dance, clog dances, ragtime and other things that have made the regulation minstrel show. But they took it in good part, even with enthusiasm, and that is saying more than could be said of many a Broadway show. If "The Old Man's Boy" had lain for twenty-four hours on the desk of a Long Acre Square manager it might not have appeared in the form that it did, which is not saying anything against it.

CHRISTMAS BAGS AND FANS ARE HANDSOME

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

The immense variety in ribbons permits an unending variety in fancy bags, and they will play their usual prominent part at Christmas time. The rich brocades and heavy weaves in plain ribbons are used for opera bags and for the handsome shopping bags which city women find it convenient to carry with them when they have small purchases to make and intend carrying them home. Ribbons in lighter weight, such as the Dresdens, in taffeta, which are found in so many beautiful designs, are chosen for all those bags that form accessories to the furnishings of the home. Among these, those with flowered patterns on a plain silk ground having wide borders of gauze are the newest and most beautiful of the season's offerings. Such a ribbon is shown here in the pretty corset bag pictured.

A new design in a shopping bag which may be made long enough to answer for a music roll as well, is pictured. It is made of brown ribbon and a figured ribbon stitched together. A narrow silver braid is placed over the stitching. The top of the bag is edged with the same braid and a little finish of silver braid trimming is placed along the bottom. The bag is not gathered at the top, but is provided with four cords by which it is held. It is laid in a few plaits at each side, held in place by an ornament made of the silver cord. A substantial ribbon is required for this novel design.

A collar bag of figured silk suitable as a gift to a man is provided with a pasteboard bottom, with sides two or three inches high. The lid of a round, oblong box is used for this foundation. It is covered with the silk. A strip of silk ten inches wide forms the bag; one edge is sewed to the bottom around which the silk fits smoothly. The upper edge is gathered on an elastic cord run in a casing in the hem. Silver cord provides hangers and the bag is furnished with an ornament made of it at each side and a bit of silver braid outlining the support at the bottom. This is a convenience that any man will appreciate.

The fine art of Japan puts even the least expensive of Japanese fans in a class by themselves. If one must look for gifts which have an artistic value to make them attractive, and at the same time may be had at a small price, the products of the Japanese are more likely than any others to meet the requirements of fine taste. Here is a little group of fans which illustrate this fact.

A fan with white enamel sticks, finished out with gold, has a shaded ground in clear, beautiful blue, merging with white.

Carved sandal wood makes a fan for a lifetime, which depends for ornamentation upon the way in which the sticks are cut out in a lace pattern. They are held together by a narrow ribbon. The faint and delicate odor of the wood makes this a fan to treasure.

Nothing but a satin-like paper and brown wood sticks form the ground upon which some artist has distinguished himself in the last fan.

Such fans may be found ranging in price from about 50 cents to $2.

PREVENTION OF CORNSTALK DISEASE

"Cornstalk disease" is not a myth in spite of the loud assertions of a good many farmers who have been fortunate enough not to encounter it in their experiences. writes a Nebraska correspondent of Farm Progress. It is a very real thing to the man who has lost a few valuable young cattle through turning them into a stalk field.

Young cattle seem to be more liable to dangerous attacks of this trouble than the older ones. For some reason or other they are more susceptible to it, and it goes harder with them after

The Galloway is the oldest of the pure breeds of cattle and is noted for its hardiness. The breed is native to southwest Scotland, where the custom among farmers is to winter cattle in the open. They have thus acquired those characteristics of hardiness which adapt them to farming conditions in America, especially in the northern and western sections. In fact, experience proves that the Galloway does better when wintered in the open than when sheltered in barns. Among beef breeds the Galloway holds high rank.

they do get it. The drier the stalks the more liable the cattle are to be stricken.

There is no treatment for it yet developed. The veterinarians cannot make up their minds as to the causes of the affection.

It makes little difference about the cause so long as no two men are able to agree upon it. The point the cattle owner must keep in mind is how to prevent it. The following plan has been found valuable as a preventive:

Turn the cattle into the stalk field gradually. The first stay ought not to be longer than half an hour, and this may be gradually increased if no trouble is encountered.

If the cattle are well fed and watered before being turned in there is less opportunity for trouble, as so much of the dry food will not be eaten. Giving them water immediately after they have stuffed themselves with dry blades and husks may bring on an attack.

By feeding some laxative forage like alfalfa or millet as a part of the ration while on the stalks the cattle are less likely to develop any of the symptoms.

So far as I know there is no medical treatment, but a laxative is helpful in the earliest stages of the trouble. It is well to bear in mind that a great many cases develop late in the fall or early in the winter during the first cold, stormy rains. By getting the cattle out of the fields in such weather and putting them under shelter the danger of an attack will be minimized.

It is easy to pick out the sufferers in a herd. They are found "humped up" and at some distance from the main body of the cattle. The switching of the tail, the restlessness and the aimless kicking are evidences of serious abdominal pains.

The drier and older the stalks the more dangerous they seem to be. Cornstalk disease is rarely heard of early in the fall, but is more common after the last cornfield has been gathered and the stock turned in.

Reasons For the Silo.

Because of the palatability and succulence silage possesses higher feeding value than does the same forage dry cured. Conservative feeders estimate that the silo doubles the value of the forage crop.

Silage can be used in summer and fall as a substitute for and to supplement pasture.

It has been conclusively proved that the silo effects a considerable saving in the cost of production of beef, mutton and milk.

The silo enables the farmer to keep more live stock, which promotes the rotation of crops and the preservation of the soil fertility.

Improving the Horse's Mane.

The mane and tail of a horse may be improved in thickness by simply bathing them once a day with cold water. If any skin trouble is present pour on or rub in a mixture of two parts machine oil and one part kerosene two or three times a week. Groom the horse thoroughly every day and feed carrots to improve the condition of the skin.

The Ailing Animal.

When a farm animal is feverish stop feeding. As a rule a horse or a cow will not take food when in that condition, but sometimes folks urge them to do it. It only adds fuel to the fire. Let nature work. She is a better doctor than any of us.—Farm Journal

FOR POWER TRANSMISSION.

Enormous Herringbone Gear Wheel Cut by Machine.

The advance which has now been made in the way of producing double herringbone gear wheels for all kinds of industrial use is well illustrated by the remarkable specimen presented herewith, and it is also an example of the way in which gear manufacturing is becoming specialized.

The factory where the gear was made has gear cutting machines installed for cutting herringbone gears upon wheels up to thirty feet in diameter and rolling mill pinions of as much as ten feet in length. Within a recent period the advantages of this class of gearing have become more and more appreciated, not only for use in rolling mills to transmit the large amount of power needed for the rolls and at the same time be able to stand the very severe shocks arising in this kind of work, but also in the navy and other fields where the use of electric motors is now becoming general.

This kind of gearing is, in fact, well adapted to work in a number of cases where a large amount of power is to be taken from an electric motor. In view of the increasing demand for the gearing the factory above referred to was erected in Paris exclusively for producing herringbone gears, and owing to the specialization of this work it is now turning out gears of high quality and precision. In consequence the French navy is now making use of these gears largely. They are used upon a number of the battleships of the fleet for driving some of the machinery on board. They are also employed in the Transvaal mines, where thirty-one gear sets serve for electric winches of 250 to 900 horsepower, and twenty-three sets are used for tube mills.

Rust on Wire Wheels.

Regardless of the quality of the enamel that is used on wire wheels constant vibration is likely to cause it to chip, and where it chips the spokes will rust, and in time they will break if the rust is permitted to eat its way into the metal. The ounce of prevention consists of the application of successive coats of thin, hard enamel, say, once or twice a season or as often as the existing enamel shows signs of chipping or wearing off. Almost any good enamel produced for use on metallic surfaces will serve the purpose, and it should not be put on too thickly or it will show a tendency to chip easily. The better way is to apply several coats of very thin enamel, allowing each to dry thoroughly before the next is put on. The drying process is an important part of the work and should be given ample time.—Automobile Dealer and Repairer.

High Motor Speed.

A speed of 3,310 revolutions per minute for an automobile motor was established by the automobile testing plant of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Massachusetts. The conditions under which the tests were made are approximated as closely as possible actual duty on the road. A dynamometer indicated that the twenty horsepower rating of the motor was reached at 1,120 revolutions per minute. At 1,900 revolutions thirty horsepower was developed, and at 3,310, the maximum, thirty-six horsepower, equivalent to a speed of eighty-nine miles per hour. At about 3,300 revolutions the power curve began to drop—Power.

Mending Broken Oilstones.

A broken oilstone can be repaired so that it will last until the stone wears out in the following manner: The pieces are first heated on an iron plate to remove all oil, then thoroughly cleaned. The surfaces to be joined are well dusted with powdered shellac, which is melted by heating in the same manner. The parts are then placed together and tightly clamped until they become cooled. The joints thus made will not interfere with the cutting surface.

Vibrator Adjustment.

Ordinarily the vibrator should be set much stiffer for magnetos than for batteries, as the life of magnetos is not affected by excessive demands for primary current. The stiffer adjustment will cause a hotter spark and consequently more power. This is one of the many advantages of the magneto.

COMB SAGE TEA

INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Veyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Restorer"; thus avoiding a lot of fuss. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Veyth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

Origin of Term "Dean"

The word dean, as applied to the dean of the diplomatic corps, or dean of a faculty, was derived from the Latin decem, ten, and its original sense was a chief of ten; an early dictionary defines it as "an ecclesiastical magistrate who hath power over ten canons at the least." Gradually it came to mean the head of any organized body, the eldest in service.

Accounts Transferable.

A couple of pickpockets had been following a rich-looking man for some minutes, when they saw him enter a lawyer's office. "What shall we do now?" asked one. "Wait for the lawyer," replied the other. "He'll have the swag and the other follow the empty pockets."

Why the Third Place?

Mrs. Duff (to new maid)—"But, Mary, there are only two in the family, Mr. Duff and myself; why have you set places for three?" The New Maid—"Sure, ma'am, it was the cook that told me you had a planer player in the house."—Harper's Weekly.

Egotist.

Hokus—"Flubdub seems to have a wonderful opinion of his knowledge." Pokus—"I should say he has. Why, I have actually heard him attempt to argue with his son, who is in his freshman year at college."—Lippincott's.

A Fox Tragedy.

On one of the large estates in Hingham, England, a few weeks ago a fox was found to be destroying poultry. The time of the raids and their boldness were proof enough that the fox must be a female with young. Poisoned meat was prepared for her, and at once the raids ceased. A few days later one of the workmen of the estate came upon the den of a fox, at the mouth of which lay dead a whole litter of young ones. They had been poisoned. The mother had not eaten the doctored food herself, but had carried it home to her family. They must have died in the burrow, for it was evident from the signs that she had dragged them out into the fresh air to revive them and deposited them gently on the sand by the hole. Then in her perplexity she had brought various tidbits of mouse and bird and rabbit and placed at their noses to tempt them to wake up out of their strange sleep and eat as hungry children ought to eat. Who knows how long she watched beside the still forms and what her emotions were? She must have left the neighborhood soon after, however, for no one has seen her since about the estate.—Atlantic Monthly.

A Plant's Drink.

When we cut flowers we put them in water to keep them fresh. Like human beings, they can exist for long periods on water alone, as the liquid forms a considerable portion of their bulk. The drinking capabilities of plants vary a great deal, and at a recent scientific exhibition held at Surbiton, England, some ingenious devices were shown to register the different actions of plant life. The apparatus consists of a twin glass tube with a coiled formation at the base. The flower is placed through a cork into the water in the upper end, which is inserted in a vessel filled with water, is lifted out and replaced, thus allowing an air bubble to enter the tube. As the plant drinks the water the bubble is forced along the coiled glass tube as fresh water enters behind it, and the amount taken by the flower is, of course, the quantity behind the air globe.

Conundrums.

What is it that we often tell others to do and cannot do ourselves? Stop a minute.
What contains more feet in winter than in summer? An ice skating rink.
Why is an egg like a coin? Because it isn't fit for use until it is broken.
What part of a fish is like the end of a book? The fin-is.
Why does a puss purr? For an obnoxious purpose.
When is a wall like a fish? When it is scaled.
What is the difference between a dollar bill and a silver half dollar? Fifty cents, you boob.
What is the best thing to do in a hurry? Nothing.
What is a put up job? Wall paper.

A BETTER DAY AHEAD.

In all too many sections of the south the one horse or mule outfit is typical of the agriculture that is still followed. In such sections the commercial fertilizer is sowed at the same time the cottonseed is planted, and a yield of half a bale of cotton or less is the rule. In other sections, where the good work done by the representatives of the department of agriculture has borne fruit, the growing of legumes is being introduced to rest the land and restore its fertility, and following such treatment the yield of the cotton crop has been increased to a bale and a half an acre. In the south, as in all other sections of the country, there are still altogether too many agricultural standpatters—men who are perfectly content to grub and drudge along as their fathers did before them, who are satisfied to let what they consider "well enough" alone and who seem to view as a sort of sacrilege anything that savors of new methods.

It is a question whether the job of judge in one of these baby shows is one a fellow would banker after, for the scorn and disappointment of the fond mothers of the youngsters who got anything less than first prize would more than outweigh the gratitude of the parent of the blue ribbon winner.

With grain and forage high, as both are sure to be during the coming winter, it will be a sensible idea to weed out those cows which have had nip and tuck paying their board bill under favorable conditions. It is choro enough to milk cows without having a lot on the string that eat their heads off every day.
